MILK BUSINESS ORGANIZATION

Dairymen and Creamerymen Get Together for Better Enforcement of Law — Pending Actions Consequently Discussed

All the cases of the dairymen and dealers in milk and milk products for whom warrants had been issued charging them with violating the state law relating to dairies and milk were discussed yesterday by Justice Parker with the consent of State Chemist Dr. E. Meserve and Miss Jane Ryder whose investigations had led to the arrests. An arrangement had been entered into between the defendants and the state authorities for the better observance of the laws which it appeared and had not been intentionally violated.

The dismissal of the actions was the direct result of the organization of an association of dairymen, proprietors of creameries and dealers in milk and milk products for the standardization of all products and for the obedience of sanitary regulations.

A preliminary meeting for organization was held last Saturday and an adjournment was taken until yesterday morning when a large number of those interested in the dairy business assembled at the superior court room. J. J. Gould was elected temporary chairman and William Treadwell temporary secretary. After addresses by State Chemist Meserve and Chairman Gould, Assistant County Attorney Jacobs spoke of the cases pending in Justice Parker's court. They had been suspended he said until it could be ascertained whether the dairymen and others interested in the dairy business intended to co-operate with the authorities in the enforcement of the law. It was determined that the community should be furnished with pure and standard milk. If the dairymen could not furnish such milk at the present prices they should raise the prices. Dr. Meserve explained what pure and standard milk was.

In the meantime the creamery companies had sent word to the farmers who had been selling them milk, inviting them to attend the meeting that they might know what kind of milk would be suitable under the law. They were informed that no other would henceforth be received and that those who had cows that could not produce standard milk, such as contained 14 per cent butterfat would have to get rid of them.

The meeting appointed the following committee on organization: T. C. Geare, F. M. Wilkinson, George Kay, J. J. Gould and E. P. Van Kirk. The following committee on resolutions was appointed: H. Austin, J. B. Dill, C. L. Dalton, Isaac Gaylord and Henry Reardon.

LABOR DAY TO BE CELEBRATED

Phoenix Trades Council Will Hold Mammoth Labor Day Celebration at Riverside Park — Dance in the Evening

At a meeting of the Phoenix Trades Council Tuesday evening it was definitely decided to hold the Labor Day celebration at Riverside park, after a conference between the members of the council and the park management. A program of sports and amusements is now being arranged by a joint committee and it is planned to make the day one long to be remembered, not only by the members of the different labor unions but by the general public as well. It is probable that some well known speaker will be asked to make an address some time during the day at the park, the speaking to be followed by a program of races, sports and amusements, swimming, diving and other aquatic exhibitions that will interest and amuse the crowd. The park offers ample room and shady picnic grounds for all the people that can be assembled and every effort will be made by both the members of the Trades Council and the park management to make the celebration a big success.

The celebration will be closed with a grand Labor Day ball, the proceeds of which will be given to the Trades Council and used for the benefit of the different labor organizations. Tickets will be sold in advance by a committee from the Trades Council and everyone interested will be asked to put their shoulder to the wheel and make Labor Day the one day in the year to be remembered with pleasure by everyone whether they be laboring men or interested in or doing business with laboring men. An effort will be made to have the day generally observed and the stores closed on that day, or in the afternoon at least.

NEW WORK FOR FARMERS ASS'N.

Chamber of Commerce Proposes Advisory Committee to Co-operate With Ranchers and University Experiment Station

Cooperation between the ranchers and the University of Arizona Experiment station here will be aided shortly by the creation of an advisory board.

The consent of the university was recently secured to put this matter to the Maricopa County Farm Improvement association, an independent organization fostered by the university extension workers. At the next meeting of the association, which occurs on September 16, J. C. Norton, the chamber of commerce representative on the board, will present the plan for forming the advisory committee.

Briefly, the duties of the committee will be to popularize the work of the experiment station among the ranchers. The members will be accessible at all times and will accept problems in agriculture to be worked out by the experts at the station. Then, the committee can help spread the findings among those who will benefit most.

UNKNOWN DEAD LAY IN FIELD

No Mark of Identification—Large Sum of Money in Pocket — Belief That Death Was Immediate Result of Hemorrhage

The body of an unknown man was found in a field about four and a half miles east of the city yesterday morning. It lay under a cottonwood tree by the side of a lateral near the railroad track south of the half way house. Coroner Parker and Deputy Sheriff Wolf and Murphy went out with an undertaker from Moore & McCalland.

The body, with the arms outstretched, lay across a slight ridge on the ground. It was in such a shape that there could be no identification. Not even the age of the dead man or the color of his hair could be guessed at.

So immaturally was the body swollen that the size of the dead man was a matter of doubt. But the feet were small and the hands, the only parts not swollen or otherwise disfigured, were small and delicate, the hands of one not used to manual labor.

Death must have occurred a week before the dead man was found, a white shirt, short sleeves and open neck, of the athletic pattern. A new Stetson hat lay near by and the feet were encased in new shoes of a good quality. In the pockets were found a pocketbook containing $150 in currency, a diamond studded stick pin and gold watch and a small sum of silver. There was not a scrap of paper affording a clue. Under one leg was a small automatic revolver, which at first suggested suicide. The shirt was covered with a great stain of what seemed to be blood and the ground nearby was stained likewise.

A great quantity of blood, if those stains were caused by blood, could hardly have resulted from a gun shot, especially from a bullet of such a small caliber. It was thought that death had resulted from a hemorrhage and that the man having felt ill had sought at some trouble the shade where the body was found.

On account of the condition of the body Coroner Parker ordered its immediate interment and the inquest which had been begun was adjourned to two o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when it is hoped the identity of the dead will be known. It is thought that the man may have been stopping at one of the numerous tuberculosis camps in that vicinity, though from none of them has come a report that a member has been missing. But in some of the camps there are small cottages in which the invalids live alone and as some of these invalids live very much apart from their neighbors one of them might leave his cottage for days without being missed.

"We have taken up the subject of molecules," answered her son.
